DIALOGUE

Diálogo

A: Hey ma! Guess what? I'm engaged!

B: What? I didn't even know you were dating!

A: Well, it was love at first sight.

B: How long have you known her?

A: A couple of weeks.

B: A couple of weeks, that's it?

A: When you know, you know. She's the one.

NEW EXPRESSIONS!

Guess what

It's a way to say you have news other people will find surprising. It can also be a supposition without having all the information necessary.

Guess what? Alexa is pregnant!

I thought he was cheating from the beginning and guess what? I was right.

Love at first sight

It means to fall in love as soon as you see the person for the first time.

Romeo and Juliet fell in love at first sight.

Erica doesn't believe in love at first sight.

How long have you

It's a question using Present Perfect, used to ask the amount of time of something. In this case, it continues to say "known her". So it's asking the amount of time a person has known the other.

How long have they been married?

They've been married for five years.

How long have you lived here?

I've lived in this apartment for twenty years.

That's it

When we say “that’s it”, we mean that there is nothing beyond that. That is all there is. There is no more information to be given.

Is there more? No, that’s it.

He was handsome, but that’s it.

She’s the one

That expression has no translation to Portuguese, but it means “she is the right person, the only one for me”. It is often used to mean “the love of my life”.

We’ve been dating for a year, and I know he’s the one.

Cara broke up with me. She said I’m not the one.
